

Court Marriage in Nepal: Legal Process, Documents, and Services

Are you looking for a legal and simple way to register your marriage? Court marriage in Nepal offers a reliable and recognized process for couples who want to be legally married under the civil law of Nepal. Whether you're a local couple, from different castes or religions, or even a foreign national, this guide will walk you through everything you need to know.

What is Court Marriage in Nepal?

Court marriage in Nepal is a civil process where a couple gets married before a judge or government authority. This type of marriage is registered according to the Muluki Civil Code 2074, ensuring full legal recognition. It is especially suitable for couples who want a legally binding marriage without religious rituals or large ceremonies.

Unlike traditional marriages, court marriage focuses on legality and documentation. This process is valid not only within Nepal but also internationally, which is especially beneficial for immigration or visa applications.

Legal Requirements for Court Marriage

To apply for a court marriage, both individuals must meet the following conditions:

- Be at least 20 years old (or 18 with guardian consent)
- Be mentally sound and not currently married
- Must not be in a prohibited relationship (as per the law)
- Foreign nationals are also eligible, provided they meet documentation and embassy requirements

Required Documents

Here's what you'll need for a successful court marriage application:

- Citizenship Certificate (for Nepali citizens)
- Passport and visa (for foreigners)
- Two passport-sized photographs each
- Notarized affidavit confirming marital status

- Embassy-issued No Objection Letter (for foreign nationals)
- Valid ID documents from two witnesses

If you're unsure how to prepare these, court marriage in Nepal services often include document verification, notarization, and translations.

Process of Court Marriage in Nepal

The steps for court marriage are simple and straightforward:

1. Collect Documents: Prepare all necessary documents mentioned above.
2. Visit the District Court: Submit your application with both partners and witnesses present.
3. Verification: Officials will verify your documents and may conduct a short interview.
4. Registration and Certificate: If everything is in order, your marriage will be registered, and you'll receive a legal certificate.

Most court marriage in Nepal cases are completed within 3 to 5 working days.

For Foreigners and Mixed Nationality Couples

Foreign nationals are legally allowed to marry in Nepal. In such cases, you'll need a valid passport, visa, No Objection Letter from your embassy, and translated documents. A professional legal team offering court marriage in Nepal services can handle translations, notarizations, and embassy procedures for a smooth experience.

Inter-Caste and Interfaith Court Marriage

Nepal's law does not discriminate based on caste or religion when it comes to marriage. Inter-caste and interfaith couples can legally marry through court registration. This is one of the reasons many couples prefer court marriage in Nepal—to avoid societal or familial objections and secure legal protection.

Cost and Timeframe

Here's a general estimate of court marriage expenses:

- Application Fee: NPR 100 – 500
- Notary Charges (per document): NPR 50 – 100
- Lawyer or Facilitator Fees: NPR 3,000 – 10,000
- Translation & Embassy Services: Varies

The typical processing time is 2 to 5 working days. In urgent cases, same-day service might be possible if all documents are ready.

Court Marriage vs Religious Marriage

While religious marriage is ceremonial, it may not be recognized legally unless it's also registered with the court. Court marriage provides full legal status immediately, including rights to inheritance, citizenship, and visa sponsorship.

If you're planning marriage with a foreigner or across caste lines, opting for court marriage in Nepal is the safest and most valid route.
